Present Protest

A petition by Carol Maxon, 124 Ebbener St., to rezone six Eastern Addition lots met with a stormy protest last Tuesday at a city Planning Commission session in the city hall.

Maxon had urged that Lots 7 through 12, Block 60, be rezoned from second residential (multiple dwelling) to light industrial. His plans are on Cedar St. between Heller St. and Southern Pacific Co. tracks.

Maxon told the commission that he wanted to construct a building in which light industrial shops could be quartered. He said he would lease the building to plumbers, builders and like businesses.

Mrs. A. W. Nelson, 525 Vera Ave., said other property owners in the district opposed the change for sentimental reasons. Explaining that she owned two houses in the area, she said that district was populated by persons who had lived there a long time and intended to keep it a residential district. Except for the railroad, she said it is a "very quiet neighborhood."

A. P. Sahlgren, 19 Cedar, said he opposed the rezoning because it would not help other property owners.

Max Hoffman, 503 Cedar, maintained that the value of the property meant nothing to him, but that he didn't want to see the district changed from a residential area. Hoffman said he had been a long time resident of the district and intended to keep right on living there for the rest of his life, and that he didn't want to live in a light industrial area.

Commission Chmn. Albert H. Morgan Jr. asked James Campbell of the firm of Hahn, Campbell and Associates, to outline what was planned for the district on a master plan the firm is preparing for the city.

Campbell said that after a study the firm had decided to recommend that the district remain zoned for multiple dwellings. This would allow construction of apartments but would not permit construction of industrial or commercial buildings.

A move by Commissioner Cuthbert Currie that the matter be postponed until next month's meeting was carried by the commission.

The commission also recommended that the city council rezoned Lots 7 through 12, Block 3, Range D, Mezesville, from second residential to business. John R. Ferguson, 41 Myrtle St., owner of the lots on the west side of Jefferson Ave. between Bradford and Fuller St., had requested the rezoning.

Set Mar. 11 as the date to conduct a hearing to sound out opinion on whether Dino Pardini should be permitted to subdivide a lot at 415 East Oakwood Blvd.

Set Mar. 11 as the date to conduct a hearing to determine whether Hiroseki Inouye should be permitted to build a greenhouse on the east side of Valota Rd. between Woodside Rd. and Redwood Ave. Before accepting Inouye's petition for the hearing, the commission heard City Atty. Paul McCarthy warn that he had scant chance of getting his proposal past the city council to which the commission makes recommendations. McCarthy pointed out that he believed it was a council policy of 10 years standing to permit construction of no new greenhouses on Valota Rd.

McCarthy said that when the area involved was annexed the council decided to permit greenhouses already in business to continue, but to prevent the erection of new ones. Despite the warning, Inouye decided to go ahead with the hearing.

Informed Norman Erickson, 324 Oakwood Blvd., of the legal proceedings property owners in his district would have to go through to change their area from a second to a first residential zone. Erickson said he didn't know deed restrictions were not part of city law. Deed restrictions in the Oakwood Blvd. area are somewhat stricter than the city zoning ordinance, but because they are deed restrictions they are not enforced by the city. A deed restriction is an agreement between property owners or between a property purchaser and a subdivider. A zoning ordinance is a city law enforced by the city. Before the area can be changed to the first residential zone the city council will have to pass an ordinance amending the present ordinance which places the area in the second residential zone.

Yacht Club Auxiliary

The schedule of events for the 1947 sailing season in the South Bay Area was discussed Tuesday when the Sequoia Yacht Club Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Harry Diller, 941 Hudson St., with 22 members present.

Mrs. Harry Greene Jr., president, presented mimeographed schedules to the members, which include three ladies' races at Sequoia this summer, four men's and Sunday suppers served by auxiliary members following all races.

Plans for a Valentine's party to be held on Saturday night at the clubhouse.

Officers elected were: Mrs. Cutler Brown, president; Mrs. Ernest Klevesahl, secretary; and Mrs. Janet Quackenbush, treasurer. Officers will be installed at a dinner party on Monday night, Mar. 24, at the Belmont Casino. Mrs. E. D. Mervy and Mrs. H. M. Scales are on the dinner committee.

Mrs. James Brown announced that two registration books had been purchased and presented to the Redwood City teen-age center. There will be no meeting in March because of the dinner, and the next meeting in April will be at the home of Mrs. William Daniels in San Carlos.

Chamber Convenes

A plea for a public hearing in connection with the proposed bond issue planned for this Spring was voiced Monday at a meeting of the San Carlos Chamber of Commerce.

Pres. William Klose said that he has been attempting to contact Mayor Patrick J. Kearns in an effort to have an open hearing of the plan being drawn by the city government for additions and improvements to the recreation facilities, as well as remodeling the city hall and possible construction of a corporation waste water plant.

As announced previously by the mayor, the bond issue election would include a recreational portion to the extent of $300,000, a sewerage disposal plant, and remodeling of city buildings. When bringing this to the attention of the public last Fall, Kearns stated there would be public meetings to acquaint the residents with the facts. The election is slated for March or early April.

In reference to the matter of parking lots for the city, Klose said the chamber wanted a "rapid decision on the parking problem" and appointed a committee to report defining the ideas by the next meeting. The committee included Neil Davis, F. L. Donovan, Ed Drotleff, Carl Yearling, Ray N. Bringhurst, Benjamin Pfeiffer, Ray Dixon and P. T. Liddy.

The chamber decided to continue its plea to have the city hall moved to the new site on Highway 92 and Britton Ave. paved after Klose said he did not think they "should let the matter drop."

The matter of the new post office was also broached by some of the members, although the president said he considered the chamber had written enough letters concerning this already.

Neil Davis who said he was in close contact with the matter, said he believed "the rezoning of San Carlos Ave. was again in the air."

The merchants committee was asked to investigate the making of city streets when Drotleff explained the job done in Belmont.

The merchants committee announced the holidays to be observed by the San Carlos merchants. The first of these to come up will be Washington's birthday. Other regular legal holidays will be observed, including Armistice Day and Admission Day.

It was announced the future meetings of the chamber would be held in Laurel Hall.

Commuter News

At a Commuters' board meeting at Stanley Perkins' home last Tuesday night, Pres. W. J. McKeegan announced appointment of the following members to serve on the Club's "Underpass Committee": Elmer K. Ross, chairman; Harrison Call, Richard S. Brien, Col. Harry Day, Robert O'Brien, Albert Morgan Jr., A. Kimbrey, Anthony Doolin, Walter O'Farrell and Eugene Hoffman. All nominees except Call, who could not be reached, have agreed to serve, according to Chairman Ross.

This is pretty conclusive evidence there is only one answer. Complete separation! As the population grows the accident rate will grow. And all the wiggly signals and law enforcement in the country won't change the trend. We await with interest the unveiling of the "master plan" for so it adequately takes care of the crossing situation in Redwood City.

Flash! We have at last located the "oldest living commutator." The works for the America Fore insurance group, which also employs Bill McKeegan. We have proof, if you want it, that this "oldest living commutator" has been continuously employed by the same company for 72 years—and he is still active. No, we don't mean McKeegan! Bill is just a newcomer to the company, having been there only 25 years.

We're talking about one Henry Nelson, now in his 87th year, who every morning at his New York office. He commutes from Brooklyn, and has been doing so for 72 years. He started at the age of 15 as an office boy with the old Continental Insurance Co., when it organized. It is now part of the America Fore group. Commuter Nelson has outlived six company presidents.

Aside from the punishment of commuting for 72 years, just imagine having to do it from Brooklyn all those years! Incidentally, while still waiting for the "oldest living commutator," any candidates, please?

Do Orientals have a sense of humor? Yes, says Ray Cereghino, but it's hard to appreciate. A Chinese called at Ray's office and it was necessary to take his name. "What's your name, Mr. Chin?" asked Ray. "An Irishman, eh?" smiled Ray. "No, me Chinaman," said Chan soberly.

We have just learned, in a letter from Mrs. J. F. Carroll of San Carlos, that there is a chapter of the C.A.I.C. (Crises, Am I Confused?) in Seoul, Korea, where her husband is in service. Mr. Carroll sent home a mimeographed set of bylaws of the Seoul chapter, which lists such confused historical personages as Noah, Christopher Columbus, Napoleon, and Jonah in the Whale for posthumous honorary memberships.

Al Armitage is in the Northwest on business. Bill Curran is conventioning this week at San Jose. Chester Armstrong is at home ill. Club's new scout committee is Roy Fredlund, chairman; Art England, Joe Harper, Miles McDonald, Dick Giedhill, Walter Shugart, new Cub Scouts committee, Roy Cereghino, chairman; Larry Olness, Paul Allen. New scout master and assistant, Troop 160, Floyd Hagen and Cecil Wells respectively, both former 160 scouts.

There are sprays now packed in cartridge manner with considerable pressure. If you dust enough, you'll have less spraying to do. In the hardest garden you can get by without spraying anything.

It's a pleasure to hear from people who are feeling good with the work they mean to get their share of garden profits. Let's hear from more of you!

By the way, lots of spraying is going on now, and whether it's dusting or spraying, do a good job when there's no wind blowing. Thorough coverage is the foundation for successful pest control.

A new spurt in the home construction boom in San Mateo County was recorded Monday with the issuance of building permits for 36 new homes, most of them near Redwood City.

The office of Bldg. Insp. A. W. Russell reported that permits had been granted to the Sunlite Homes, Inc., Palo Alto, for the construction of 17 new homes in the Willows Tract, East Palo Alto.

Russell's office reported that the times are valued by the building inspectors at $800 each. The contractor will be Barrett & Hilt, Redwood City.

Lacey and White of Redwood City, the owners and builders, were granted permits for the construction of six homes valued at $8000 each. The homes will be built on Hoover St., Friendly Acres.

Permits for three houses were granted to J. H. Tilton, Palo Alto, for the construction on Barton Place, Willows Tract. The houses are in the $9000 class and will be built by J. R. Simon, Palo Alto contractor.

Ten homes to be constructed in the north end of the county were announced with the granting of permits to the Stonecrest Corp., San Francisco, the owners and builders. The houses will be in the $6000 class and will be built in Broadmoor Village, Colma.

Anniversary Party
Mr. and Mrs. P. M. McAdon were the honored guests on their 35th wedding anniversary recently at a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Eltringham, 171 Myrtle St. Mrs. Eltringham and Mr. McAdon were worthy matron and patron of Sequoia Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, in 1945.

Dinner was served buffet style and the table was set in the Valentine motif. The Eltringhams' two daughters, Elaine and Arlene, carried in the decorated anniversary cake.

Guests were Mrs. Pansy Mansbarger, Mrs. Bertha M. Potts, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Maranta, Mrs. Alice Allide, Mrs. Alice Otis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Padgett, Mrs. Charlene Mollison and Mrs. Ruby Holm.

The McAdons' only daughter, Mrs. Howard Black Jr., is now making her home in Nashville, Tenn.

Anna M. Saldierna
Mrs. Anna Marie Saldierna, mother of Phillip J. Noerager of San Carlos, died yesterday. She had been a resident of 560 Homer St., Palo Alto, for 20 years.

Mrs. Saldierna was the wife of the late Genaro Saldierna; mother of Arnold J. Noerager of Cleveland; sister of Mrs. Cora Krause of Daly City and Mrs. Josephine Buttrock of Covina, and grand-daughter of Phyllis A. and Roy Noerager. A native of Norway, she was 70 years old.

Garden

As you know, at this time there's no cure for virus diseases of plants. All we can do now is be careful and try to prevent our flowers, vegetables and trees from contracting such diseases. But the time may come when these viruses will be isolated and we will have a shot of something that will snap them right out.

So much has been accomplished that anyone is foolish to say that anything literally anything can't be done. Probably it can be done, and most likely will be.

Meantime, we can be good gardeners and get our share of fun and success. Speaking of fun recently here's a "Up" letter from Mrs. A. W. Peterson of San Leandro:

"We have planted a half-dozen Cuthbert raspberries and three currants (or is it currant?) in our garden. Our peas have grown sufficiently to define the rows and we are quite pleased with the promise of a grand 1947 garden."

"So far the garden is on paper—our plot is 40x50 feet. We have worked over the place and should have a profitable season. This will be our second season in the vegetable business. In your column recently there was reference to all-purpose dusts, etc. Our experience has been disappointing."

Our 1946 pole beans were stricken with mildew, and the earth root and took it to four nurseries for identification. A soil fumigant was recommended and used, apparently with success, for a second crop planted several weeks later gave us some enormous beans.

"The containers our 'dusts' came in all refused to work after a few applications. I have bought several spray guns and they too have been unsatisfactory. I don't feel the size of our yard warrants spending too much on equipment for dusting and spraying. I would certainly welcome any suggestions you have on acquiring this equipment."

"Ants fairly carried our corn away last year. We used several recommended cures but our harvest was lean. Many ears were black with aphids. I gathered our corn with beans, plant by plant (and all my handsome petunias) to his nest. I got him with a trap."

"I'm sure I'll put up a good fight this year with our experience and the ideas and suggestions we are constantly absorbing."

"Incidentally, spading has been fun the past few weeks. It's just like whipping cream and quite as rich." Carol Peterson.

The containers in which dusts come must be sold at low cost, and necessarily are cheaply made. Considering they do remarkably well. But green thumbs should have better equipment for the garden—and I think a plot 40x50, (which will support a family with all its fresh vegetables) rates the best available.

For dusting you can't beat a bellows type of gun. Good ones, selling for less than $5 are on the market and they do a swell job. When you have such a duster, you can buy your all-purpose dust in larger (and less expensive) amounts. What's more, the dusts will kill more pests where thoroughly applied with a good bellows duster.

Spraying equipment, for the most part, isn't very good. It's not cheap, but still it doesn't develop enough pressure to do an adequate job. Some spray equipment, using pressure from the hydrant, may do a satisfactory job.

There are sprays now packed in cartridge manner with considerable pressure. If you dust enough, you'll have less spraying to do. In the hardest garden you can get by without spraying anything.

It's a pleasure to hear from people who are feeling good with the work they mean to get their share of garden profits. Let's hear from more of you!

By the way, lots of spraying is going on now, and whether it's dusting or spraying, do a good job when there's no wind blowing. Thorough coverage is the foundation for successful pest control.

Discuss Summer

Girl Scout registration for the coming year was brought to the attention of all leaders, when the Girl Scout Leaders' Assn. met last week in the Girl's Club Room of Sequoia High School with Mrs. I. E. Chapman, president, presiding.

Mr. Peter Wiegman of Woodside, a native of Holland, was the guest speaker. He talked on "International Friendship" with an eye toward winning a lasting peace in the coming generations and the necessity for strong leadership now.

Mrs. William Mohlfeldt urged leaders to get cooperation of Girl Scout mothers on a food committee to serve refreshments to the fathers who are working to get Woodhaven ready for the coming season.

Mrs. Fred Kubus, program chairman, presented color motion pictures of the "International Festival" held at the Brownie Day Camp last Summer. The Redwood City swimming classes were announced, but the dates have not, as yet, been set.

Mrs. A. S. Hamilton was in charge of games and a program by leaders wearing colorful costumes was presented. Participating were Mrs. E. S. MacKenzie, Bavarian; Mrs. Richard McIntosh, Scottish; Mrs. I. E. Chapman, peasant; Mrs. A. S. Hamilton, Cuban, and Mrs. Odette Lise, peasant. Puppets in several costumes were exhibited by Mrs. Hamilton.

Mrs. H. A. Jones demonstrated stenciling on silk and Mrs. MacKenzie gave an exhibition of folk dancing. Included in the dances were "Seven Jumps," "Wooden Shoes," "Karagishka" and "Loopy Lou."

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Alda McDonald of Woodside, Mrs. D. B. Maclean, Gayle Milne, Fred Kubus, D. E. Stewart, Henry DeWree, Paul Goebel, J. M. Simpson, W. Sherman, Jack Kramer, Cyril Dill, Frank Brady, R. Lubich, and drew Cattich, W. Altmeyer and Miss Ruth Donohoe and Miss Martha Keefe of Redwood City. E. Chapman, George Findlay, I. E. Chapman, Ella Rice, W. Mohlfeldt, A. Lise, H. A. Jones of San Carlos, R. M. Lawson, C. L. Mills, T. Kennedy and M. Scottford of Menlo Park, and Carl Balladon, Leon Lord, F. S. MacKenzie, Antonio Stam and A. S. Hamilton of Belmont.

To date this year . . . $408,200
NEW PERMITS—It. A. Alessandrini, three $9000 dwellings at 1617 Cedar, 1921 Cedar, 1912 Howard Sts.; Barnsley and Marsh, $7000 dwelling, 1068 Lord St.; E. H. Oxendine, $9000 dwelling, 1538 Cedar.

Girl Scouts

Next Summer promises to be a busy season in Girl Scouting in Sequoia District announced Miss Martha Keefe, executive secretary, today and many leaders will be needed to carry on the valuable work among young girls.

A course for beginning leaders of Brownie and Intermediate Scouts will be given in Belmont every Tuesday for four weeks from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Girl Scout House, 703 Middlefield Rd.

Anyone interested in becoming a Girl Scout leader has been invited to attend the meetings. Members of the class have been asked to bring their own "nosebag" lunches.

"The need is urgent," said Miss Keefe today, "to offer the opportunity to women in the Sequoia District, which includes Redwood City, San Carlos, Belmont, Atherton, Menlo Park and Woodside, to become better acquainted through their daughters."

On Friday the girls of Troop 61 were hostesses at the children's dance, which is given in Belmont every first and third Fridays of the month under the direction of leader Jean McKenzie.

The Girl Scout dance was based on the Valentine theme and children performed folk dances. Attending were 68 children, five chaperones, two guests and four instructors present.

Instructors are Mr. and Mrs. F. S. MacKenzie for folk dancing, and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Harbough for the waltz.

Among the guests were Mrs. Arnette Lise and her Girl Scout troop from San Carlos.

Meter Move

Petitions signed by 468 persons were presented to the Palo Alto City Council Tuesday asking that City to postpone the special election on the question of parking meters, already in use, until the regular municipal election May 13.

The council referred the petition to the committee on public safety and the board of public safety with a view to decision at an adjourned meeting Feb. 24.

Holding of a special election is mandatory under the terms of an initiative petition filed earlier with the council unless that body rescinds all parking meter legislation, thus doing away with the meters at once. The new petition, which is a mere request and not a mandate, suggests that these alternatives can be dodged by the expedient of voting the present legislation and immediately setting up new one legalizing the meters with the provision the matter shall come before the people at the May 13 election.

Board Created

An ordinance setting up a Menlo Park Architectural Board of Review was introduced at the meeting of the Menlo Park City Council Tuesday and protests of residents in the 900 block of Menlo Ave. against being included in the latest improvement district were received.

Meanwhile bids on the Santa Cruz Ave. improvement project will be opened Mar. 25 at 8 p.m. at the city hall.

The architectural board of review would consist of city planning commission members plus the building inspector as an ex-officio member. Applicants for commercial building permits would be required to submit architectural plans to the board for approval, purpose of which would be to encourage artistic design of commercial buildings in Menlo Park.

If the architectural board of review approved the architectural plans, the permit would be issued. If the board recommended changes in the exterior architectural design that the applicant refused to make, the application would have to be referred to the city council for public hearing and a decision.

If no action is taken by the architectural board of review within 30 days or the city council within 45 days after filing of the application, it would be assumed that permission had been given.

The city planning commission, the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce and the Menlo Park-Atherton Board of Realtors, meeting informally Monday night, concluded that it is unnecessary to have an ordinance inflicting severe penalties. Instead, public opinion and the benefit to everyone involved would be compelling factors.

Legality of the ordinance was questioned, as there would be no way to enforce it. However, Mayor Charles P. Burgess last night pointed out that it would not be illegal, as there is no provision for a denial.

Club Convenes

The regular meeting of the Duzzen Club was held at the home of Mrs. Velma Nelson on Fernando Ave., Palo Alto, with Mrs. Derrel Martin, president.

Election of officers was held and Mrs. Cleve Anderson was chosen president for the coming year with Mrs. Ferrel Wiley, secretary; Mrs. A. Banker, vice-president; and Mrs. Velma Nelson, treasurer.

A surprise stork shower honored Mrs. Ferrel Wiley. The table was decorated with favors by Mrs. Estelle Lee, mother of Mrs. Wiley.

Plans for an installation party to be held at Ramon Oaks in April were made. Mrs. Percy Wilson will be chairman.

Quash Squelched

Superior Judge Edmund Scott late Monday afternoon denied Atty. Gerard Wagstaffe's motion to quash a grand jury indictment against two Dumbarton Oaks men accused of conspiracy to commit arson.

Judge Scott, quoting previous court decisions, said that if the grand jury were presented no evidence at all, the indictment should be quashed.

"If an evidence at all exists," Judge Scott quoted, "the court should not examine the sufficiency of this evidence."

Wagstaffe gained a legal victory however, when he succeeded in forcing the district attorney's office to change the indictment.

Wagstaffe told the court that he was filing a demurrer, primarily on the ground the indictment does not show on its face which of the alleged crime was committed. Dep. Atty. Fred Wyckoff, after a whispered consultation with Chief Dep. A. S. Whitmore, asked the court and was granted a week's continuance to amend the indictment.

The conspiracy charge is against John E. Arlotti, 40, and Henry R. Harkins, 23, his brother-in-law. They are accused of having conspired to burn down the house of John T. Walker, Negro veteran, was building near their homes.

Judge Scott said that he would take the demurrer under submission but Wyckoff said he would rephrase the whole indictment with the grand jury.

Workers Entertained

Although the precinct workers really had no part in the outcome of the recent election, nevertheless their work was appreciated by the Third Township Republican Committee and on Wednesday evening over 70 women and men were guests at a "thank you" party at the Redwood City Woman's Club-house.

Mr. Stewart Copps, chairman of the Third District was chairman of the affair. Mr. Wayne Millington, Redwood City lawyer, spoke on the "History of the Republican Party." Coffee and cake were served and a social evening enjoyed.

Among those attending were Mrs. Alice Stafford, who was in charge of the Republican headquarters of office during the election; Mrs. Harold Putnam, president of the County Republican Assembly; Mrs. J. P. Pauser of Hillsborough, member of Pro America, and Mrs. Sigmond Stern, vice president of the Republican Council of Women.

Catch Kids

A car theft ring of Burlingame high school students has been uncovered and seven of the gang probably will appear before juvenile court here next Monday, probation officers said Monday.

The ring was uncovered, Asst. Probation Officer James J. Lovoi said Monday, after one of the boys was picked up in connection with the showing of a baggage cart into the path of a Southern Pacific train.

Lovoi said that the seven, ranging in ages from 14 to 16, were apprehended by Burlingame police, and are at present in custody of their parents.

Some of the gang admitted stealing three cars, two in Burlingame and one in Millbrae, according to Lovoi. Others have admitted robbing coin boxes of newspaper stands and pushing the baggage cart, which was demolished by the train.

Two other boys, who Lovoi says are members of the same gang, were picked up by the Federal Bureau of Investigation after the stolen car they were driving was involved in an accident in Oregon.

News Announced

Mrs. Louis J. Macchia of Carmelita Dr. has announced the engagement of her daughter, Janet Louise Padley, to August Benjamin Day of Berkeley. Janet's father is Robert C. Padley of Berkeley.

The future bride is a San Carlos girl having attended the local grammar school. She graduated with honors from Sequoia High School and is now a senior at the University of California where she is majoring in art.

Her fiancé, son of Mrs. E. H. Day of Hayward is taking graduate work at the University of California. Both he and Janet are officers of the Delta Epsilon art society of the University.

During the war Mrs. Day served for three years with the merchant marine. Plans are for a late summer wedding.

Receives Roller

Menlo Park finally has received its war surplus steamroller, under order for more than a year, Max Mickel, superintendent of streets, announced.

The roller was uncrated and taken out to roll some rocks near the train depot yesterday afternoon, just to try the new gadget out. It will be used for street work.

A street sweeper has been on order longer than the roller, Councilman Vernon Barker, commissioner of streets, remarked. They are being manufactured, he said, but are expensive. He said the city has been trying to get a surplus sweeper, but hasn't had a high enough priority to obtain those that have been available.

Join Redwood

All that remained today between Redwood Village and annexation into Redwood City was the passage of an ordinance by the city council.

Villagers voted, 78-1, Tuesday in favor of the annexation. Ralph S. Dodge, city clerk, announced.

Dodge said that the ordinance covering the annexation would be introduced at the council's next session on Monday.

Villagers sought annexation after they learned they received only such fire and police protection as Redwood County offers all unincorporated areas.

The possibility of joining the Menlo Park Fire Dist. was considered during subdivision discussions, but after a mass meeting in the city hall it was determined to seek city annexation.

The city council conducted a hearing to determine whether a majority of property owners opposed annexation. When it learned they did not oppose such a move, the council ordered the election yesterday.

There were 105 qualified voters in the 175 homes now occupied in the Conaway & Culligan subdivision. Of these 78 voted for the annexation, 10 opposed it, and one ballot was thrown away because it was improperly marked.

The 29-acre subdivision is on Middlefield Rd. near Charter St. After the ordinance is passed, will property owners be allowed to set their own fire and police service and other services normally provided to all city sections.

Water Service Co. in the subdivision are scheduled to be taken over by the city water department. The city department will furnish the subdivision with water from the Hetch Hetchy system.

At present there are no fire hydrants in the subdivision but the city is planning an early installation of these.

Wants Dibble

The former Dibble Hospital recreation area, which the city of Menlo Park hopes to acquire as a civic center, will be declared surplus in about three weeks, Mayor Charles P. Burgess said Tuesday.

The property will be declared to War Assets Administration, past the Federal Public Housing Authority and Menlo Park will have a strong chance of acquiring the property, Burgess said he understood.

The 30-acre tract along the railroad tracks would be "a priceless asset to our city," Burgess commented.

On the site, a 6000 square foot swimming pool, buildings to house all city departments, a public auditorium, a spacious gymnasium and buildings for use by community organizations are included.

The site does not include the land now being occupied by Stanford University.

Arson Checked

Possible arson, inspired by jealousy, was being investigated Monday by San Mateo Fire and Police Dept. officials after fire Sunday night struck the home of Mrs. Velma Scott, 125 North Claremont St., and Monday morning struck a car parked at the Scott home.

Mrs. Scott told police a former boy friend had threatened Sunday "things would begin happening" unless she returned a box he had given her.

The fire in the house was discovered at 10:49 p.m. and reports indicate it started under the floor when a roll of magazines was between the floor joists near the floor furnace ignited. The underside of the flooring was charred and wiring insulation burned by the blaze.

At 2:29 p.m. Willie R. Jacques of San Francisco reported his car on fire. The car, parked in Mrs. Scott's driveway had been locked since 8 p.m. last night.

Seeks Time

Robert H. Scott, San Francisco atheist, formerly of Palo Alto, doesn't plan to let radio station "KQW" mail interfere with his seeking radio time to broadcast about atheism.

Fred Ruegg, program director of KQW, announced that an analysis of the mail which followed a 30-minute broadcast last Nov. 17 indicated "KQW would not be serving the interests of the public by continuing programs on the subject of atheism."

Scott has won the right for radio time in which to preach the doctrines of atheism after he had petitioned the Federal Communications Commission.

Scott has announced he will petition the FCC to revoke the licenses of radio stations KQW, KPO, KPBC and perhaps KGO. The commission last year granted time for religious promotion should also grant time for promotion of atheism.

Takes Home

The San Mateo County Probation Committee has formally accepted control of the juvenile home, Chief Probation Officer John S. Cowgill said Wednesday.

The committee held its regular monthly meeting and accepted the responsibility which was granted it by the board of supervisors.

The supervisors ended the split control of the juvenile home, which the probation committee had held with the social welfare department, by passing a resolution detailing the duties of the two agencies. The control of funds still remains in the social welfare department, since it would take a charter amendment to transfer it also to the probation committee.

Also discussed at the meeting were the preliminary plans for formulating the budget for next year. Forms from the county auditor's office and the civil service commission had been sent out at the end of last month.

Boy in Love

"Bill is in love again," writes Mrs. L. his mother, "or, at least, we think he is. All the signs point in that direction. We have been through this twice before and we wish you could tell us how to head off these amatory seizures."

In other portions of her letter Mrs. L. describes the symptoms. Do they sound familiar to you?

Bill is 15 years old, nearly six feet tall, and weighs 140 pounds. Looks thin, is awkward in his movements, and unlovely in his general contours. He has grown very rapidly, but now seems to be tapering off. He does not have much energy probably because of the strain of his rapid growth, he needs more sleep than most boys. He acts like a horse when he is excited.

When Bill is home, which he rarely is during his waking hours, he usually keeps himself busy listening to his favorite orchestra or reading books by Joseph Alschuler and similar adventure writers. During Bill's periods of being in love he deserts the radio and his books. He hopes — how he hopes! His mother says he can sit for 20 minutes and look at one spot on the ceiling.

But Bill isn't home very much. He is over at his lady love's house every evening until her folks hint that he should go home. He comes home regretfully, as though to prison. He climbs the stairs, undresses slowly, and with many sighs climbs into bed.

It takes the combined efforts of the rest of the family to get Bill up in the morning in time to eat breakfast of get off to school. Even at that, he has quite a tardy record at school.

Just at present Bill is greatly interested in his appearance. At school he combs his hair between periods and during periods. He hopes it with various oileaginous substances, guaranteeing that even Bill's untidy shock
